DALTON RESIDENCE

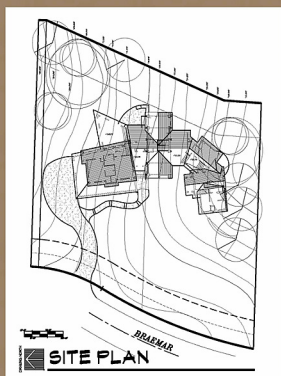

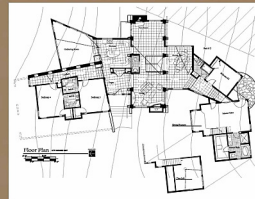

Project Location: Valparaiso, Indiana
Architect: Grant Walker Currier Architect
Contractor: Wagner Homes

Project Description:

Working with a change in existing site grading of 20'-0" presented the opportunity to create uniquely defined areas for living, entertaining and relaxation. Natural framed materials are the backdrop for the owners' furnishings and artwork. Crafted views from almost every area of the home capture the inspiring rolling site. The hill is lyric and the home is the melody. "Blend the home architecturally with the landscape and the hill", was the directive given to the architect by the owner. The owners sought to build a structure which exemplified their artistic sensitivities and love of nature.

The jury stated that "The house's integration into the site is its strongest feature. Each space seems to take advantage of differing views, and the irregular shapes of the rooms, combined with the placement of windows, allows for a unique interplay of lighting and shadow."
